

FAMILY SUMMER ACTIVITY

Create a Kitchen Band

Who needs a drum set when you've got pots and pans?

Grab some kitchen gear, assign instruments, and come up with a beat. An impromptu jam session is a fun, easy way to teach your children about timing and rhythm. Plus, Spice World makes it simple to shine with repurposed lids and containers. See all the different sounds you can make, put a song together, and make some noise!

WHAT YOU'LL NEED:

- 🍋 Pots, pans, and bowls
- 🍋 Wooden spoons and spatulas
- 🍋 Lids or metal trays for cymbals
- 🍋 A little bit of rhythm

HOW TO DO IT:

1. Gather your "instruments." Think wooden spoons, pots and pans, plastic containers, and the lids from Spice World products. Opt for your lesser-used cooking utensils, and avoid sharp and breakable objects.
2. Assign each family member an instrument.
3. Create a simple beat and try to play in sync.
4. Come up with a sweet band name, of course.
5. Perform a concert for your pets, stuffed animals, or even the neighbors!
